Good afternoon

My response to the consultation follows. It is based on 18 years as a hydropower generator and advisor and on 4 years setting up and running the micro hydropower association (now amalgamated with the British Hydropower Association):

The only electricity generation assets referred to in the consultation and accompanying papers are solar PV and wind power assets. Hydro-electric power assets, large and small are not mentioned at all.

I consider it vital that these assets (many thousands in the UK) are included in all future actions arising from consideration of these proposals for asset registration. Hydropower offers an important resource for generating clean electricity on a local community and national scale.

Kind regards

Gavin
